

BILLY FROLICK

To Whom it May Concern:

In addition to two years teaching at UCLA Extension's Writers' Program and five years at NYU's Tisch School of the Arts, I am the co-writer of DreamWorks Animation's MADAGASCAR, as well as the author of seven books.

Claire Stenger was a student in one of my screenwriting classes at NYU. I found her work to be exemplary. She also demonstrated great skill when critiquing the writing that other students presented.

She was also one of the few students I recommended for an industry position, and after starting as an intern at Baboon Animation, Claire became indispensable. In addition to administrative duties, she read scripts, did story editing, and interfaced with the company's creative collaborators. She is great with people, detail-oriented, and a hard worker.

It is my pleasure to recommend Claire Stenger.

Sincerely,

Billy Frolick